

Your Money Or Your Life

The man with the shiny gun,
Said your money or your life.
I wish he would have said instead,
Your money or your wife.

The first I'd have to think about,
The second not at all.
But before I made my choice,
I said I have to take this call.

My cell phone was a 'buzzin',
It was my lovely mate.
Before I even said hello,
She yelled, why are you so late?

Then she said she bought new furniture,
And a whole new wardrobe, too.
Even though our checkbook's overdrawn,
And our rent is overdue.

She booked us for a two week cruise,
And she joined another gym.
The robber heard every word she said,
Before I said to him...

It seems that I am short of funds,
Thanks to my spendthrift wife.
So since I have no choice at all,
Go ahead and take my life.

The robber put away his gun,
In his eye I saw a tear.
He said keep your life and your wife,
Let's go get a beer.
